Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The investment objective of the Sprott Focused Global Balanced Class (the “Fund”) is to provide consistent income and capital appreciation by investing primarily in a diversified portfolio of global equities and fixed-income securities.

As part of its investment strategy, the Fund will invest in equity and fixed-income securities, foreign securities and other mutual funds and may also:

- invest in American Depositary Receipts, private placements, and indirectly in physical commodities other than gold through investments in commodity ETFs;
- engage in securities lending and repurchase and reverse repurchase transactions as permitted by securities regulations to seek to generate additional income;
- engage in short selling in a manner which is consistent with the investment objective of the Fund; and
- use derivative instruments, such as options, futures, forward contracts and swaps, for both hedging and non-hedging strategies.

Risk

The risks of investing in the Fund are described in the Fund’s simplified prospectus. The Fund is suitable for those investors seeking the consistent income and capital appreciation potential of a diversified portfolio of global equities and fixed-income securities. The Fund is suitable for investors with a low to medium tolerance for risk and volatility and a long-term investment horizon.

Results of Operations

The Fund, Series A returned -5.5% during the first six months of 2016, while its blended benchmark returned -2.3%.

The first six months of 2016 saw substantial volatility in the markets driven by economic and political uncertainty, mixed monetary policy signals and, at the end of the period, shock caused by the decision by Britain’s referendum vote on June 23rd to leave the European Union. Increasingly low and even negative interest rates globally pushed precious metals and their related equities higher in the first six months of the year. Oil rebounded from its lows earlier in the year and with it energy equities.

Driven by expectations for slower world-wide growth and a surge of foreign buyers of North American bonds, yields on government and investment grade bonds reached near all-time lows during the first six months of 2016, with almost a third of all global bond issuances carrying a negative interest rate. Following a weakening of commodity prices at the beginning of the year, credit spreads widened significantly in January and February, but as commodities rallied the spreads rebounded to the tightest levels since mid-to-late 2015. High yield bonds rebounded as the energy and mining sectors rallied.

In the equity portion of the portfolio, Consumer Discretionary and Industrials, sectors levered to economic recovery, were the top sectors detracting from performance during the first six months of the year, with the European positions lagging the U.S. holdings. In response to substantial volatility and the expectation of a UK recession following Brexit, the manager sold several small cap, European positions, specifically UK domestic-focused names and replaced them with larger cap U.S. and European stocks. Currency hedging created the most value in the Fund’s portfolio for the period, reflecting the macro-oriented trading nature of the markets. The utilities sector contributed to performance for the period, as a lack of conviction in the markets benefited defensive sectors.

The Fund’s allocation to the Sprott Diversified Bond Fund at the end of June was 28.8% and was the largest contributor to the Fund’s positive performance for the period. After a jittery start, high yield bonds rebounded as the energy and mining sectors rallied. This fund maintained its cautious positioning through the period, only slightly increasing its high yield allocation, and was not able to capture the full benefit of the rally. This fund’s allocation to government bonds allowed it to reduce the volatility and take advantage of the rally caused by the Federal Reserve’s decision to not raise rates. This fund hedged part of its U.S. dollar exposure, which helped partially offset the rally in Canadian dollar.

The Fund’s net asset value increased by 42.8% during the period, from $7.1 million as at December 31, 2015 to $10.1 million as at June 30, 2016. This change was predominantly due to net share issuances of $3.6 million. The management expense ratio decreased compared to the prior period.

1 The information is provided as at June 30, 2016 and December 31 of the years shown prior to 2016.

2 Management expense ratio ("MER") is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

3 The Manager may waive or absorb a portion of the operating expenses of the Fund. Waivers and absorption can be terminated at any time.

4 The trading expense ratio ("TER") represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period. The TER includes dividend expense and securities borrowing expense paid by the Fund in connection with securities sold short.

5 The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio advisor trades its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of the Fund.

Past Performance

The indicated rates of return are the historical total returns including changes in share values and assume reinvestment of all distributions in additional shares of the relevant Series of the Fund. These returns do not take into account sales, redemption, distribution or optional charges or income taxes payable by any shareholder that may reduce returns. Please note that past performance is not indicative of future performance. All rates of return are calculated based on the Net Asset Value of the particular Series of the Fund.

Year-by-Year Returns

The following chart indicates the performance of each Series of the Fund for the six-month period ended June 30, 2016 and each of the previous twelve-month periods ended December 31 shown, unless otherwise noted.
